Today we are being inspired by a famous artist, the mother of Modernist Painting, Georgia O'Keeffe!

She is my favorite artist for many reasons:

Georgia dared to be different

Georgia was a strong, courageous, independent woman

Georgia was not afraid to think differently, to experiment with new techniques and to be creative

Georgia loved nature, plants, landscapes, bones, trees and flowers

Georgia was an art teacher, an artist and a world traveler

Materials: Pencil, eraser, canvas board, silk Poinsettia flower

Directions:

Today you will be drawing from observation! Look at the Poinsettia and draw what you see!

1. Start with the seeds at the center

2. Then draw the petals around the outside edge!

Most Poinsettia have 6 large slightly pointed petals.

Some have some smaller petals as well.

Be sure to include the veins in the center of the petals for detail!

Today we will be painting the Poinsettia flower petals using acrylic paints and the blending technique!

We will paint the seed and background next week!

Materials: Water cups, paint palette, brushes, paper towels, red and white acrylic paints, canvas boards

1. Start with the first petal at the top of your flower.
2. Continue to paint each petal working your way down the canvas, one petal at a time.

Tips:

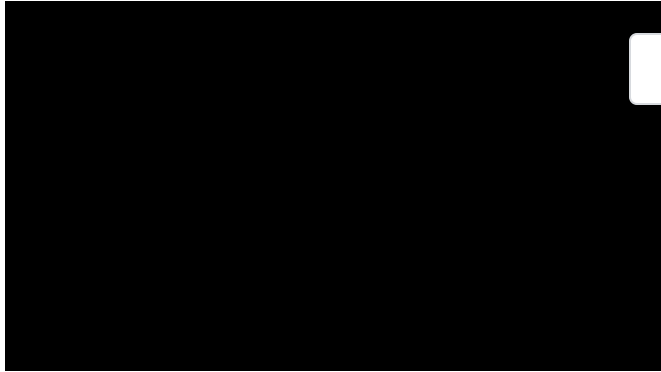

*Use blending to create a 3D look.

More white=pinkish petals

Less white=red petals

*Acrylic paint should be thick and stick not watery like watercolors

*Rinse your brush and dry it on the paper towel thoroughly between colors

Today we will be painting the Poinsettia seeds and the background using acrylic paints and the blending technique!

We will paint the seed and background next week!

Materials: Water cups, paint palette, brushes, paper towels, red, green and white acrylic paints, canvas boards

1. Start with the seeds at the center of the flower.

Take your time and focus on getting the seeds to look round by blending and using a small brush!

2. Finally paint each section in the background with green paint, I working your way down the canvas, one area at a time.

Tips:

*Use blending to create a 3D look.

Try using all 3 colors to create the 3D look of the seeds.

*Use the red to make the top half of the seed and then green on the bottom side as a darker shadow color.

*Add White as a highlight last

*Acrylic paint should be thick and stick not watery like watercolors

*Rinse your brush and dry it on the paper towel thoroughly between colors
